“Success is the sum of small efforts, repeated day-in and day-out.” –
Robert Collier

What this quote truly means is that success isn't handed to anyone. It's achieved by hard work and what you do every day to get to your goal. Your efforts don't have to be big leaps and bounds to achieve success, take a realistic approach to taking the necessary steps. We don't achieve things overnight. We constantly have to put efforts each and every day to improve our skills and strengthen our ability to complete the task smoothly and accurately. Because by doing so, we will get success one day.
